

Dear Ms. / Mr. ,

I'm writing to apply for a job in Product Manager. I'm interested and also experienced with product development.

I majored in Computer Science during my college in Beijing University of Posts and Telecommunications which computer science ranks top 5 in China and passed all programming related courses including C/C++ programming, data construction, discrete mathematics etc. As a good result, I'm familiar with developing scheme together with product design.

After graduation, I was so lucky to enter one of the top game producing company named Elex, the one who produced Clash of Kings and Age of Empire. As a leader of a 5-developer team, I took charge in a game tools named 337 Game Master including prototype design and develop collaboration. For the online market part, I focused on Google Play comment and Facebook homepage. On developing new version, I took A/B test tracking with Google Analyst to make efficient monetization strategy. Fortunately, we came to 5million downloads with 4.5 rates on Google Play within 6 month.

About my recent work, our company set foot in business Wi-Fi devices. For the cloud part, we developed a B2B platform named WiDash which I took charge in. At the same time, an DSP got online with the effort of my four developer team within 3 month successfully.

I hope this letter could introduce more about me. Thank you so much for your attention and looking forward to your reply. Thanks again.

Sincerely yours,
Benny.